Viewmate Plus: The ergonomic all-rounder that impresses through its simplicity

All monitors come with stands that force people into poor postures and take up lots of space. That's why monitor arms have become an essential ingredient to achieve a truly ergonomic and practical workstation. The use of ergonomic accessories like monitor arms can increase productivity up to 15%, free up valuable desk space and support clean desk policies. However, many monitor arms are either expensive, over complicated, unstable or poorly built.

That's why we designed the Viewmate Plus: the ergonomic all-rounder that impresses through its simplicity.

After a lengthy development process, we achieved what we believe to be the essence of a monitor arm for a wide range of workstations: the Viewmate Plus. Its simplicity is found in the solid steel construction that ensures that the Viewmate Plus is utterly reliable and suitable for virtually any type of monitor.

This monitor arm is as robust and uncomplicated as it can possibly be and outperforms competing products when it comes to price, ergonomic adjustability and ease of use. That's thanks to its dynamic spring-assisted design that allows you to effortlessly adjust your monitor to the desired position. This makes the Viewmate Plus ideal for hot desking.
